minutes into the release of the new album, or you're just watching the live stream on your computer as it happens? It's pretty incredible to see something that is so long, so well written, so full of so many musical concepts, and so lyrically powerful get this kind of response. There's a lot of things in there that I've been working on for a long time, and that I didn't think would translate well to live performance, and I didn't think would make it into a radio friendly record, but this song really gets me out of my head, and my heart, and I'm so excited to have it out there. I can't wait to hear it as an audience. HUGE thanks to Mike for taking the time to do this interview with us! The Undertow is due out on December 10th, so pre-order it here, or download the title track here!
Rethink Seattle Rethink Seattle is a nonprofit organization based in Seattle, Washington that promotes civic dialogue. It was founded in 2000 as a way to address "Seattle's most critical civic issue: How to move the city forward". The organization began by focusing on the redevelopment of Pike Place Market and the Pike Place Underground. The organization has since shifted its focus to promote diversity in Seattle. Rethink Seattle is headquartered in Seattle. History The organization was founded in 2000 as a way to address the city's most critical issue, redevelopment of the Pike Place Market. "We need to figure out how to move the city forward, and there's only one real area of expertise that we have: People who are deeply connected to the city." In 2009, Rethink Seattle initiated the "Rethink Seattle Summer of Engagement", which included a series of events, including an open public dialogue on race relations in Seattle. Rethink Seattle has been noted for its efforts to diversify the leadership of Seattle and other municipalities, as well as for its successful effort to defeat the proposed Seattle "religious freedom" ordinance. Rethink Seattle's model has been replicated by other cities, including New York City, Portland, Oregon, and Los Angeles, California. Mission Rethink Seattle states its mission is "to inspire and support a wide range of passionate, innovative and visionary civic leaders so they can transform how their cities work and what they 82157476af
